

PRODUCT LIABILITY DEFENSE

Our product liability defense attorneys have appeared in virtually every U.S. state on behalf of our clients. Our experience includes both commercial and consumer products, with much of our work related to heavy equipment, including agricultural, construction, and industrial equipment.

We have over 50 years of experience representing manufacturers, distributors, and individuals in the complex area of products liability. We have served as national and regional counsel for product manufacturers coordinating defense of their products through trial and appeal. In the process, we have developed an entire network of relationships with many attorneys and experts who focus on the technical and scientific issues inherent in any complex litigation practice.

Our attorneys have also used this extensive experience to counsel and guide clients through the complex maze of product warnings, owner's manuals, contract provisions, and other aspects of risk management. We have counseled clients abroad about importing their products into the United States, as well as domestic companies exporting to foreign markets.

We have represented manufacturers and distributors of many products, including:

- Agricultural equipment
- Air conditioning systems
- Amusement park rides
- Asbestos products
- Asphalt composite shingles
- Automobiles and automotive products
- Bicycles
- Cabinets
- Construction equipment
- Food processing equipment
- Hay balers

- Industrial equipment
- Meat processing equipment
- Medical devices
- Motorcycles
- Pharmaceuticals
- Recreational products
- Reinforced plastic mortar pipe
